DEAD AND LIVING SOLDIERS HONORED ON MEMORIAL DAY

Town Pays Tribute to Those Who Preserved the Union Elegant Addresses and Inspiring Music.

The showers which occurred early. Tuesday morning cooled the air and although it looked dubious at times, it was an ideal Memorial day. The remaining members of Francis S. Long Post, No. 20, G. A. R. Jeroma B. Baldwin commanding, accompanied by the Spanish War Veterans, commanded by Senior Vice Commander Harry Denman, Arthur Sweet, color bearer, G. E. Richards, bugler of Company L. First Infantry, C. N. G., and the American band made the annual pilgrimage to the Windham Center, cemetery, North Windham cemetery and to St. Joseph's cemetery where the graves of the dead heroes were marked with flowers and patriotic exercises were flowers and patriotic exercises were held.

The trip this year was in automobile trucks and record time was made, starting at 8 o'clock in the morning and returning to the town building at 11.30 noon. Everyone expressed appreciation of this method of travel. The party left this city at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning and went first to Tuesday morning and went first to South Windham, where the band marched a short distance and gave a concert in front of the South Wind-ham House.

band marched into the cemetery to the music of The Eternal Hope. Although early in the day there was a large number gathered there. The grounds presented a handsome appearance, Flagrant flowers were laid upon each soldier's grave by the comrades assisted by the Spanish War veterans. Following this there was a selection by the hand. Rev. Raymond M. Plumb then offered prayer. Rev. Robert S. Moore, paster of the local Methodist church, delivered a short address. He said: This is no unmeaning service, these rites and ceremonies have great value and meaning for us. We celebrate, we commemorate, we hold in fadeless remembrance the brave men, living and dead, who gave themselves for the service of their country, who at the call of duty were not found wanting. So gladly and with love and with admiration in our hearts we strew flowers of our remembrance over their gaves and and with love and with admiration in our hearts we strew ficwers of our remembrance over their graves and we thank God for their service and for their lives. This is hallowed ground, consecrated ground, for here sleep the men who counted not their lives as dear to themselves but laid all they had on their country's altar. Following the address taps was sounded by Bugler G. E. Richards of Company L.

of Otrobando avenue the first of the cess baggage overbalancing the equilibrium of the Stonington school system, Now that a housecleaning has actually begun, people, why not make a thor-ough job of it? If there is to be a ough job of it? If there is to be a town thigh school for Stonington in the borough, the people of Stonington have got to elect a school committee who understands that the first requisite is to find a real superintendent, hire him to superintend, and then mind their husiness until convinced that they have business until convinced that they have secured the wrong man. Experience of the last two years should teach some lessons. Won't you profit by them? Whether C. A. Woodworth is a good superintendent of schools for Stoningsuperintendent of schools for Stoning-ton, or for any other place, is not for us to decide. Why we mention the mat-ter at all is because we admire the stand the man has taken in what he considers his duty as a ditizen of the town, as a father who has children in the school he conderne. So for as his letter to the people is concerned, a man would be a triple-expansion ass who lays himself liable to damages unless he is pretty sure of the statements he makes over his own signature. We believe that the school committee acted wisely in deferring action on reap-pointment of teachers until certain of Mr. Woodworth's charges are investigated. The people want to know, you know; and the school committee is astute enough, even the densest among them, to realize that, after all, the people do the electing.—Mystic Times.
